The names of some of the members were given to the commission Wednesday by Perkins, but he said he could not remember all.

This syndicate, according to the testimony given at the hearing, received donations of land and other property for building the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico Railway. The amount of the syndicate's profit, which, in the view of the examiner Brown of the Interstate Commerce Commission should have gone to the railroad company, and should have been included in its assets when the Frisco bought it, was $200,000.

Asked to be "tipped off," O. H. Nance of Texas, treasurer of the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico railroad, and of numerous other roads controlled by the Frisco, testified relative to a telegram he had sent to Treasurer Hamilton of the Frisco asking for permission to make an overdraft at a Texas bank. He said in the telegram that he could get the loan if Hamilton would assure him that he would be tipped off 72 hours in advance of any receivership suit to be filed against the Texas road.

Nance admitted that he sent the telegram, but declared that he was not tipped off by Hamilton or anyone else before the receivership suit against the Brownsville road was filed July 4. He said he did borrow $25,000 from Mrs. H. M. King, June 24, but returned it to her July 1, when a hotel plan at Kinrossville, Tex., failed to be carried out. The money was returned four days before the receiver for the road was appointed.

Yokum returned to the witness stand, as he said, to clear the record as to his statements and those of Albert T. Perkins as to the syndicate which built the New Iberia Northern line. Perkins testified Wednesday that there was a tentative agreement for the purchase of the line by the Frisco, which was supplemented by a written agreement in September, 1911, and that the payment by notes, was made in May, 1912.

Yokum testified Monday that the syndicate were independent affairs, and that their members operated without assurance of the sale of their lines to the Frisco.

"I said," declared Yokum in reviewing his testimony, "that the Frisco did not have assurance of the syndicate to build either the Brownsville or the New Iberia line, and that was true. There was no understanding, until the written agreement of September, 1911, in which a contract was made."

Red Blood For Pale People!

A big supply of red blood corpuscles is what helps to make any man or woman have a healthy pink complexion and cherry red lips. Resort to paint and powder are totally unnecessary and besides that are harmful. Three grain hypo-nuclease tablets, it is used regularly for several months, seem to create a greatly added number of millions to the red and white corpuscles of the blood, and not only improve the color, but add increased flesh to the thin and frail body. These tablets promote assimilation, absorption and digestion, and this splendid aid to nature's forces transforms the complexion and figure. They are prescribed by physicians, but being of a perfectly harmless character, self-administration is being followed by many who obtain them direct from any well-stocked apothecary shop. —ADVERTISEMENT.

SUFFRAGE LEAGUE GOES ON A TRAMP AND AVOIDS RENT

Women Get Quarters Free on Sixth Street Until a Paying Tenant is Found.

The Equal Suffrage League of Missouri has gone on a tramp. The first station in the journey which is primarily for advertising purposes, was reached Wednesday with the opening of headquarters in a room on the ground floor of the Sixth street side of the Commercial Building, which formerly was used for a saloon.

Until Wednesday the suffrage headquarters were in the Syndicate Trust Building. The league paid rent for the office there. The space in the Commercial Building is given to the women, rent free, until such time as the building agents find a tenant who will pay. Then the suffragists will have to move.

"I suppose," said Mrs. David N. O'Neil, former league president, "that we will live with our baggage in our hands for some time. But we expect to get lots of advertising out of it. As soon as we are put out of this place for a paying tenant we expect other landlords will offer temporary lodging to the league. The rent money saved will be devoted to other means of promoting the suffrage idea."

When the new headquarters were opened crowds of men, women and children gathered before the door. Members of the league stood in front of the building passing out pamphlets on suffrage to persons in the street.

The suffragists commented on the conduct of small boys in the crowd who posed for their pictures as champions of suffrage. They said the boys "showed the degree to which sentiment in favor of suffrage is growing."

Petitions asking that the suffrage question be submitted to the voters of the State in the 1914 fall elections are being offered for signatures.

NEW CATHEDRAL ALTAR DESIGNED BY ST. LOUIS ARCHITECT

Contract Awarded to Gorham Company on Plans of George T. Barnett.

The awarding of the contract this week for the erection of the great high altar and baldachin in the New Cathedral to the Gorham Co. of the New York revealed that the actual winner of the contract was a St. Louisan, George T. Barnett, well-known architect.

The Gorham Co., in bidding on the contract, submitted a design by Barnett, but his identity was not made known to the awarding committee. The donor of the altar, which is to cost $100,000, was W. C. McBride of 29 Washington Terrace.

The firm of Barnett, Haynes and Barnett, now dissolved, of which he was a member, designed the New Cathedral structure. Barnett's design, which was accepted over that of famous designers, architects and artists all over the world, is a beautiful twentieth century adaptation of the earliest type of Christian art, known as the Byzantine, which reached its zenith in the Justinian period of the fifth century and was revived in the renaissance of Venice in the fourteenth century. It has been pronounced by the men of culture and travel on the committee on selection as being one of the finest examples of this type in the world.

Rare Materials to Be Used. It is to be erected of rare imported marble, glass, mosaics, abundant carvings and sculpture work, all from the hands of the present-day masters. The language of Church and Christian symbolism has been lavishly employed in the design.

The apex of the dome interior will be embellished with a wonderfully iridescent faience mosaic, using that very ancient symbol of the Holy Trinity which states in geometrically arranged figures that the Father is not the Son, that the Son is not the Holy Ghost, that the Holy Ghost is not the Father, but the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost are all in one God.

Around this emblem in the center will be the seven gifts of the Holy Spirit arranged in the form of the conventional dove and to which symbol at the end of each circle will be added Chi Rho, the symbol of Christ, or the Divine word. A rich, luxuriant vine entwining these subjects will be suggestive of the fullness, richness and abundance of the Holy Spirit.

In the pendentives of the dome will be rare mosaic panels of four archangels. The columns supporting the main structure will number 16; representing the number of perfection, so considered by the best authorities on Christian iconography.

Figures of Four Gospels. Four columns supporting the semicircular will be symbolic of the four gospels, and on top of them will stand figures of the four evangelists, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

The face of the Rood arch is to be set with deep, richly colored mosaics, the motif of this decoration to be the peacock, the symbol of immortality, worked out in true Byzantine style. The 12 Apostles will be symbolized in a semicircle forming a background for the arch.

The Holy Rood cross with the figures of the Savior, Mary and St. John will be made of wood, carved, encoiled and colored in Oberammergau. Among those who submitted bids and designs other than the Gorham company were the Deprato Statuary Co., Chicago; Pooley Studios, Chicago; Edward A. Allen Studios, Philadelphia; Church Art Work Co., Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Fred Puszt & Co., Cincinnati; Tiffany Studios, New York; McBride Studios, New York; Pickett Marble Co., St. Louis; Chevalier A. Leonori, Rome; Domestici, Rome; and several concerns and individuals in England, France and Germany.

MAN ROBBED BY "POLICE"

Two Holdups Say They Are Detectives and Take $10.

Two men who said they were "plain policemen" stopped Charles J. Wisley of 3417th and Olive streets, Wednesday evening. They gave him the "rapid-fire one over."

"What's your name? What you doing here? Who are you? Don't get fresh. What you got?" came rapidly from one of the men, and Wisley tried to answer he was stopped in the face and told to "be seen, not heard."

Then he was searched and a $10 bill removed from his pocket. Wisley was told to get home as soon as he could, after which the two men walked leisurely away. He reported to the police.

PRESIDENT'S PLAN IN PHILIPPINES IS WRONG, SAYS TAFT

He Believes It Is Dangerous to Give Governing Power to Incapable Men.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Speaking on the subject, "Holding the Philippines,"
before the Brooklyn Institute of Arts
and Sciences, former President William H. Taft last night attacked the policy of the Wilson administration as demonstrated in the acts of Governor-General Francis Burton Harrison since he took over the reins of government of
the islands early last month.

Taft spoke at length on the history
of the American occupation with which he had been connected as Governor-General, Secretary of War and President almost continuously from 1900 to March, 1913, ending this part of the discourse with the statement that in his belief the great mass of the people are uneducated majority, which must be protected, was not ready for self-government and would not be ready for another generation in all probability.

In taking exceptions to the policies of President Wilson in granting more power to the government and legislation
to the Filipino politicians, Taft said
this action was far in advance of the time or even the approach of self-government.

"Are we to let these islands go and
turn them over to an oligarchy of eloquent and attractive orators who really
believe in aristocracy, and who have no
real conception of civil and individual liberty and certainly no capacity by training and education for successful
popular government?" the speaker
asked. Continuing he asserted that "the minute the strong back ground of a powerful Government is withdrawn the difficulties with the Moros, who are militant and have no sympathy with
the Filipinos and have a racial hatred
for them, will at once develop. The Moros have notified us that they will not stand Filipino Government and the Filipinos say they cannot take over
the islands unless they take over all of them."

Saying he believed he could discuss
the Philippine question with impartial judgment, with very considerable
knowledge and experience, and in no
spirit of carping criticism, Taft added
that he felt that he knew so much more
about the problem and its difficulties
than any person in the present administration that he had a right to venture
to call to their attention some of the
mistakes they have made, "if reports
that have come from Manila as to what is being done there are authentic." He added:

"The present declaration of the administration that they are looking forward to ultimate independence has been accepted by the politicians of the Philippines as a great boon, although Mr.
McKinley, Mr. Roosevelt and I promised it from the first, and have always promised it; but we were a little more
definite in saying that we thought it was not coming for a generation, and
probably not for more than that time."

"May Lead to Agitation."
"The present administration clearly
sees no time, but their attitude heretofore has been such that the mere declaration of their intention to furnish ultimate independence is accepted by the Filipino people as a promise of an early
when the Filipino people find that they are no nearer independence under Democratic administration than they were under Republican administration they will think themselves deceived and this may lead to some agitation and some disturbance which will have to be put down with a strong hand."

"The administration has enlarged the Filipino membership in the commission
so that it becomes a majority and legislation will now go through the Assembly under the impulse of politicians
of the islands, and by becoming a popular
climax in its favor they will force their legislation through the commission, however much the intelligent Filipino members of the commission may wish to avoid it. Some of the legislation will have to be vetoed, and it will have to be vetoed by the Secretary of War at Washington, because the Governor-General has not the power to veto. I am inclined to think that this veto at Washington, after it has been exercised a number of times, will be less satisfactory
to the Filipino people than the obstruction to wise legislation by the commission in the islands in which Americans predominated."

"Upon the arrival of Mr. Harrison in Manila, and as soon as he had announced his policy, he called for the immediate resignation of six or seven
of some of the most important government chiefs in the islands, and announced
his intention of appointing Filipinos to
some of these places and Americans
from the United States to others. Among these bureaus are that of customs, of public lands, of internal revenue and
of health. These are bureaus that require for their proper administration a thorough knowledge of the islands and
a technical familiarity with special statutes and bureau regulations. I sincerely hope that this sweeping removal
of most competent officers is not the result of a tendency toward the spoils
system."

"When by whatever hard knocks his representatives shall learn the truth as to the conditions in the islands as they will, and communicate it to President Wilson, I have confidence that he will direct them to retract any steps which have led them away from the course
marked out a decade ago by McKinley
and Root, and successfully carried down
to March, 1913. My confidence is based on the language used by President Wilson
in his work on constitutional government in respect to our duty in the Philippines."

Mr. Taft's speech was heard by a large audience, and was well received.

ONE DEAD, ONE HURT IN GANG BATTLE IN A RESTAURANT

Man Starts Fight Over Cold
Soup, Is Thrown Out and Returns With Friends.

In a "gang rush" at Frank Fewing's
restaurant, 410 South Third street,
Wednesday night, Frank Strubel of 415
South Sixth street was shot and killed
and Harvey McDonnell of 3125 Franklin
avenue was shot and dangerously wounded. Oscar Stutz of 644 Old Manchester road is also believed to have been shot.

The shooting was done by Philip Am-pelmann, 50 years old, a cook at Few-ing's restaurant.

Fewing, who is known in the neighborhood as "English," because of his nationality, is at the city hospital with
cuts and bruises on his face and head.
At the hospital also is Joseph Messler,
known also as "Buddy Joe," said by
the police to have started the trouble
which led to the shooting.

Police Command Ampelmann.

Ampelmann is under arrest, but he is warmly commended by the police for
using his revolver to repel the "gang
rush," though his act cost a human life.
Ampelmann says Strubel had a butcher
knife in his hand when he shot him and that other members of the gang were advancing on him.

The trouble started at 8 p. m. when Messler entered the restaurant and ordered a bowl of soup. It was served to him by John Horsford, who has been employed only a short time
as waiter and dishwasher in the restaurant. Messler, according to Am-pelmann, profanely alleged that the soup was cold and left the restaurant after making threats.

At 8 p. m., Ampelmann says, Mes-
ler again entered the restaurant and
made a sarcastic remark about
"some of these" that think they're waiters.

Horsford Knocks Messler Down.

Horsford knocked Messler down and
threw him out of the restaurant.

Ampelmann says he said to Horsford:
"Now you've done it. You've had a run-in with Buddy Joe. He'll come back
with his gang and clean out the place."

"I know it," replied Horsford. "Here's where I quit my job."

Taking off his apron Horsford left
the place.

At 10:30 p. m. the gang arrived. Mes-
ler, McDonnell, Strubel and Stutz entered Edward Meyer's saloon, next door
to the restaurant, and connected with it by an inner door. In the saloon they found Fewing. Messler attacked Few-ing, who fought back, knocking Mes-
ler down and beating him.

Ampelmann Is Attacked.

Ampelmann was behind the lunch
counter in the restaurant. He says that while the fight was under way in the saloon, Strubel, McDonnell and Stutz
entered the restaurant from the saloon.
They tried to get him from behind the counter by telling him his boss was in trouble.

Ampelmann says Strubel caught sight
of a revolver behind the counter and tried to grab it.

"He sat on the counter and reached
over for the revolver," said Ampelmann.
"I beat him to it. Then he picked up
a long-bladed carving knife that was on the counter. I fired and he fell. The others tried to rush me and I kept on firing. I am sorry it happened, but I was fighting for my life and I would
do it again under the same circumstances."

Gang Rule of the District.

Ampelmann says that he was proprietor of a restaurant in the same neighborhood for many years and it was always understood that an affront to any member of one of the gangs which infest the district was certain to be the provocation for a "gang rush."

Horsford, he said, had been employed in the district only a short
time and did not understand this
when he fought with Messler.

Horsford was arrested at his home,
304 Clark avenue, and is held as a witness. He corroborates Ampelmann
as to the cold soup incident and the later fight with Messler.

ALL NEW YORK IS SINGING SONG-HIT BALLAD OF 'ADELE'

Clean Humor, Sparkling Libretto
and Tunesful Score Carry Musi cal Comedy to Success.

By Ripley D. Saunders.
The Post-Dispatch dramatic critic
who is in New York to review new plays.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Clean humor,
good singing, clever acting and an un
commonly tuneful orchestral score are
the pleasing characteristics of "Adele,"
the Franco-American musical com edy, now entering upon its fifth month
of crowded houses at the Longacre Theater, where I have just seen and heard it to my great delight.

Astonishing to relate, in view of its enormous New York success and the fact that it was born in Paris, there is not a smutty line, a suggestive song nor
an offensive situation in this entertain ing and distinctly comforting produc tion. It is a living refutation of the charge, so far as the present season is concerned, at least, that the playgo
ing public of our American Metropolis cares
only for objectionable and more or less
unclean material in its lighter stage
providence, trimmed with melody and
dancing and physically embellished with
an occasional scene-full of showgirl
femininity.

Lack of originality in its plot is the
one blemish of the piece, the story's
basis, upon which its action hinges,
turning out to have been obviously bor
rowed from "The Count of Luxem bourg," last season's big hit. To a certain extent this diminishes one's relish of the entertainment.

Precisely as in "Luxembourg," the newer musical play's hero is induced
to marry the heroine in order to pave
the way to a later divorce and remar
riage arranged in advance, and also as
in "Luxembourg," this mechanically
wedded pair comes to love one another
very fondly indeed, to the original plan's
undoing.

Plagiarism Forgivable.
But there are so many diverting points
of difference in the main, so skillful
an employment of new action, and such
a temperamental unlikeness as a whole
that one is enabled to enjoy "Adele"
without any resentful chewing of the
"come-back" rag, so to speak, and
heartily to forgive whatever plagiarism
may be found to exist in the play's foundation structure. With its spark ling libretto by Paul Herve, its excep
tionally capable blend of joyously lit
ting and tenderly sentimental music by Jean Paulin, "Adele" has won heart
ily on its own merits and all New York
is now humming its biggest song-hit
title named, a love ballad of appealing
melodic charm.

The principal figures in the play's
story are Adele, its little role heroine,
played with delicate gaiety and sung
with unusual effectiveness by Natalie Alt; the young Baron Charles de Chan
tilly, whom she marries, most likingly
pictured by Hal Forde; Robert Friebur,
with whom Adele at first believes her
self to be in love, competently realized
by Crauford Kent; Mme. Myrienne de Neuville, when young De Chantilly
thinks for a time is the one woman in the world for him, brightly drawn and
even better sung by Georgia Calne;
Henri Parmaceau, father of Adele, fa mous dealer in cardinals and other tined
delicacies, a fine low comedy creation
by Will Danforth, and Alfred Friebur,
old Parmaceau's rival in trade, father
of Robert, so quaintly etched by Dallas
Welford as to develop into the most un
forgettable figure of grotesque humor
seen in musical comedy for many a year.
Around this group of characters the entire action of the piece revolves, and
to them and the orchestra must be given
practically the whole credit for its over whelming success.

Lyrics and Music Genuine.
There are quite a number of minor
folk and an attractive bevy of young women in the cast, but they serve mere ly to complete the stage pictures and to swell the volume of song at needed
moments. The three acts of the play
show respectively the bachelor apart ment of De Chantilly in Paris, Adele's
boudoir in a Trouville hotel on the first night of her honeymoon as De Chan
tilly's bride, and a garden surrounding
the hotel on the morning after.

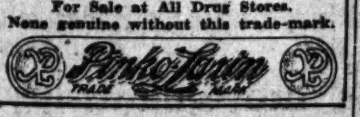

One especial charm of the piece is
that it is so well played, dramatically,
as to be interesting for its story's sake,
despite its "Luxembourg" likeness, and
another is the very real and genuine
value of its lyrics and of the musical score throughout.

Among the songs and ensemble num bers that win the marked favor of the audience are the exquisite quartet, "It's Love," sung by Adele, Parmaceau, Babiole, Adele's friend (this part being taken by Edith Bradford) and Jacques.
De Chantilly's valet in role assigned to Harry Bradley; Adele's solo, "Is It Worth While?" Then her big song,
"Adele," the duet, "Like a Swallow Flying," by Myrienne and De Chan
tilly, followed by their "Honeymoon With You," the solo, "Paris Good-bye," by De Chantilly; "Wedding Bells," by Bab
iole, Jacques, bridesmaids and ushers;
"Tours for Me and Mine for You," a big ensemble number; the trio, "Master
of Opinions," by Myrienne, Charles and Robert; "Close Your Eyes," by De
Chantilly and Adele; "When the Little Birds Are Sleeping," by Robert and Adele; a concerted number, "When the Clock Is Striking Ten," "Yesterday," by Adele; "You Are a Very Nice Boy," by Myrienne and Robert, girls and boys;
"Strawberries and Cream," by De Chan
tilly and Adele; "My Long Lost Love Leonore," a parody of Poe, in which Will Danforth, as Parmaceau, brings
down the house to the accompaniment
of shouts of laughter; "Gay Soldier Boy," by Babiole, Jacques and chorus,
and "A Waste of Time to Plan," by Adele, Charles, Myrienne and Robert.

The large orchestra, admirably con ducted by Arthur Weld, bears much of
the responsibility for the play's success,
and acquires itself finely. The piece re ceives a beautiful scenic and costume
production.

SCULPTRESS GETS $202 VERDICT FOR BUST OF A MAN
Miss Daisy Taake Wins Case
Against Edward Lasar, Iron
Manufacturer.
A jury in Judge Jones' court Thursday
afternoon awarded judgment for $202 to Miss Daisy Taake, a sculptress of 1334
North King's highway, in her suit against Edward Lasar, president of an ornamental iron manufacturing com pany.
Miss Taake, in 1908, was employed to make a plaster of Paris bust of Lasar,
to be used for advertising purposes. It represented Lasar as a blacksmith at
the forge and carried the legend, "All
honor to the ironworker."
Lasar's defense was that Miss Taake
agreed to do the work for $25. A judg ment for that amount was given to her
in a justice court, but she appealed to the Circuit Court.

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE
Try "Ely's Cream Balm."
Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils
and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head
will open; you will breathe freely;
dullness and headache disappear.
By morning! the catarrh, cold-in head or catarrhal sore throat will
be gone.
End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm"
at any drug store. This sweet, fra grant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which

lines the nose, head and throat;
clears the air passages; stops nasty
discharges and a feeling of clean ing, soothing relief comes imme diately.
Don't lie awake tonight strug gling for breath, with head stuffed;
nostrils closed, hawking and blow
ing. Catarrh or a cold, with its run ning nose, foul mucous dripping into
the throat, and raw dryness is dis
tressing but truly needless.
Put your faith—just once—in
"Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold
or catarrh will surely disappear—

HUERTA INCREASES TAXES HEAVILY AS CONGRESS MEETS

Assessments Almost Doubled by Edict Issued Just Before Dictator Loses Many Powers.

AUTHORIZES NEW MONEY President Gives Banks Permission to Circulate One and Two Pesos Bills.

By Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—One of the last acts of Provisional President Huerta before the new Congress which met this afternoon takes over many of his powers as dictator was to issue an edict today making a sweeping increase in the internal taxes of Mexico. The stamp tax, which requires a revenue stamp on checks, receipts, contracts and all documents of a public nature, was doubled. The tax on tobacco, alcohol and crude petroleum was heavily increased.

As a measure to relieve the difficult small money problem arising out of the restriction of silver circulation, President Huerta issued a decree permitting banks of issue to put out one and two peso bills. The smallest bill hitherto in circulation has been five pesos. It was regarded here today as possible that Huerta after having received the ratification of the new Congress, might be brought to the point of self-elimination through the efforts of the foreign powers.

The desire for ratification of his acts is currently reported to have been a main reason why Huerta so obstinately opposed the pressure brought to bear on him to withdraw. The Provisional President is said to have been persuaded that he must resign and is said to have decided on Manuel Garza Aldape, former Minister of the Interior, as the man he desired to succeed him.

The insistence of John Lind, the representative of President Wilson, caused him to change his attitude and to reject the idea of resigning. The Congress held a short preliminary session before the arrival of Huerta. Speaker Eduardo Tamariz, formerly Minister of Public Instruction, formally declared open "the second period of the Twenty-sixth Mexican Congress." The Senator Tamariz is the Catholic Deputy whose nomination as Minister of Public Instruction by Huerta was opposed by the Liberal party in the last Congress. This opposition was cited by Huerta in his previous defense of his action in dissolving Congress, as one of the contributory causes to the step he had taken.

Tamariz's selection as Speaker is regarded as a further rebuke to the Deputies of the old Congress. Copies of Huerta's message to Congress were given to newspaper representatives. The message is an appeal to the Mexican people to place "national dignity above party interests of the moment" and not bend before "damnable interests and niggardly ambitions."

Quoting Napoleon, Huerta, in defense of his dissolution of the previous Congress and the wholesale jailing of Deputies, will say: "The law is not violated when you save the fatherland."

At the outset Huerta reviews the constitutional provision for the operation of the Government by its three branches. He then says that the Congress had become a hot bed of revolution, and that his only plan to save the country was to dissolve the Congress. He thus endeavors to justify his acts in throwing the members of Congress into prison. No mention of the United States is made in the document, and it closes with an appeal to all Mexicans to join forces in "the fertile task of national reconstruction."

Lord Cowdray Asks U. S. to Protect Pearson Syndicate in Mexico.
LONDON, Nov. 20.—The United States Embassy in London, acting on the personal request of Lord Cowdray, called to Washington today, asking the American Government to extend its protection to the imperiled interests in Mexico of the Pearson concern.

Lord Cowdray declares that the presence of United States battleships at Tampico had a salutary effect in preventing the destruction of the property of the concern and that he would appreciate a continuation of such protection.

Lord Cowdray also asked Ambassador Page to convey to Washington his denial of having extended financial or other assistance to Huerta.

THE LEADER BREAD GIRL WILL APPEAR ON THE STAGE OF THE MONTGOMERY THEATER AND GRAVOIS THEATER TONIGHT

LEADER BREAD GIRL'S ENGAGEMENTS.
Thursday, between 12 and 1, she will be at corner of St. Charles and Broadway. Between 6:45 and 7:15 she will be at corner of Vandeventer and Easton avenues. Between 7:30 and 8 o'clock she will be at corner of Arco and Manchester. Thursday evening, at 8:30, the Leader Bread Girl will appear at Montgomery Theater, corner of Fifteenth and Montgomery streets, and about 9 o'clock she will appear on the stage of the Gravois Theater, Jefferson and Gravois.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
The appointments at Suburban tracks and Easton are changed from Thursday to Friday.

FRIDAY'S ENGAGEMENTS.
Friday, between 12 and 1, she will be at corner of Olive and St. Charles. Between 6:45 and 7:15 she will be at corner of Jefferson and Gravois. Between 7:30 and 8 o'clock she will be at Suburban tracks and Easton. These appointments will be kept, providing she is not captured in the meanwhile.

How would you like to be the Leader Bread Girl? One young lady in position to speak with authority says that, in her judgment, it would be sure to be the real thing, than to be suspected to the extent of being bottled up and kept there until the blueprints have to be summoned to get you out of your dilemma. On the other hand "Fluffy" says that while playing the same old-fashioned game, both interesting, witty and amusing to the crowd, that to her personally it is no joke, and a stretch of it for several days is enough to reduce her nerves to a ragged edge of a frazzle. To always be on your guard and to look unconcerned while canons in all directions volley and thunder and to know that you are the target that everyone of them is aiming—it is not exactly in the line with the serenity of the mid-summer night's dream of which the poets write, but more on the order of kill-or-be-killed—both the killer and the slain.

Meanwhile the Leader Bread Girl wears a smile that won't come off. Shops and shops come more and more, and after visiting all the nooks and corners of the stores, sailing forth to pastures new.

By THE LEADER BREAD GIRL.
"From now on I know I am in for real hard work from the way I was sized up at the theaters last evening. I know that my work as a fugitive will be a trying one. Everyone had a chance to study my features, carriage and mannerisms, the last two characteristics which any individual finds difficult to disguise. I don't know how long I will last. I would dearly love to stay a few more days. But that, of course, all depends on you. I have engaged, from the Cadillac agency, one of their touring cars to help me out in my work, as it is necessary to have a reliable car. Here is a tip—I will use a Cadillac machine to and from my appointments from now on and may find it necessary to jump into the machine and make a hurried getaway at my appointment, so be on the lookout if you get me all right."

"This evening I shall appear on the stage of the Montgomery Theater at about 8:30, and Gravois Theater about 9 o'clock, and address the audience. Yesterday I visited the postoffice after leaving my noon appointment, where I purchased some stamps and mailed several letters. Coming out of the postoffice a lady wearing a blue suit ran after me and grabbed me by the arm, saying: 'Oh, I got you; you're the Leader Bread Girl.' Of course I denied my identity as I only recognize one form of salutation, which is 'Pardon me, you are the mysterious Leader Bread Girl of Maxwell Bread Co. I like your bread.' Remember, you must have THREE labels in full view at the time you accept me, but do not touch me. As my appointment, corner of Gravois and California, I was accepted by a young man, but he had the salutation so muddled up that it was impossible to understand him—something on this order: 'Are you the Leader lady of the Bread Co.?' I was standing in the doorway of the drug store. I believe the name above the door was 'Rice.' The young man that was with him will find a note in his pocket which, if he will bring it to the Maxwell Bread Co., will receive a 1c cash. This evening, by special arrangement, I will appear at the Montgomery and Gravois Theaters. Friday evening the Leader Bread Girl will appear on the stage of the Mikado Theater, 3551 Easton avenue.—ADV.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Free Hospital Treatment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Your editorial in Monday's paper on free hospital treatment noted. I did not make the statement that the Post-Dispatch said "it can't be done." I said that I had asked the question repeatedly through the columns of your paper, and many letters have been written and published in your paper that bear out my statement.

I do not doubt your veracity when you say a physician at one of the hospitals told you that at that very time a destitute patient was being received, but I have a very large doubt indeed, that the practice is general. It may be possible for a person of influence to have a destitute person admitted to one of the hospitals, but do you believe for a minute that you or I could get this free treatment at, say, St. Luke's, or some other first-class hospital, for some destitute person, in whom we might be interested, living on the level? I think not. Only the other day, in your column of answers, it was stated that a poor person would be admitted to the hospital, provided "the" bed was not taken. I would understand from this, then, that the hospitals only have one bed at the service of the poor, and if that person is sick for six months or a year, no other person could get the benefit of "the" bed. If this information is correct, then probably a dozen destitute people could be taken care of and no more. What is this compared to the great number of such people in this city, and does it take $45,000 to do that little bit?

To my different letters in your paper I have received responses from physicians, also I have talked with physicians personally, and they have said that they have tried to get some of their poor patients into the hospitals and failed, and that from their experience it could not be accomplished.

CHARITY.

Remove the Disgrace.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It is a poor rule that won't work both ways. Why not put Warden McClung in rines until he tells the public what he has on the Governor? Twenty days of such punishment, and for what? It is due time that the people of this State take a hand in this affair. Discontinue these heartless dictators at once and do not allow our noble State to be further disgraced in the eyes of the world.

LAW-ABIDING CITIZEN.

Push the Investigation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A convict of the State prison is strung up by his wrists for 30 consecutive days for the purpose of extorting from him a confession which he subsequently repudiates. These inhuman and insane methods are not only permitted, but approved by the chief executive, who, when interviewed upon the subject, openly asserted that he would not interfere, adding the sarcastic remark that "you" would punish men by washing their faces and combing their hair." All of which goes to prove that this (to quote the editor of Ready's Mirror) "rotten-hearted as well as pin-headed" administration at Jefferson City thinks and acts by the standards of the fifteenth century, being five centuries behind the times. The Attorney-General offers a further insult to the people who would abolish existing conditions by stating that there will be no investigation until the excitement has subsided, expecting the public, whose memory is known to be remarkably short, to forget the matter, thus enabling the officials to smooth things over to their own satisfaction.

It is the duty of the people of Missouri to see that the excitement does not subside. Let us increase the agitation by co-operating with the Post-Dispatch and, by bringing every pressure to bear upon legislative representatives and State officials, insist upon an immediate and thorough investigation, that the system may be exposed in all its hideous rottenness. Let us impress upon these devilish minds who are (mis) managing affairs in this State that they shall not be permitted to practice prison methods of a feudal Europe in Missouri in A. D. 1913.

FRANK BROWN.

Hospital Charges.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The annual collection for the hospitals of St. Louis is coming soon. I would wish the ladies and gentlemen having charge of it would see if there is any reason for such a collection. A poor man who wants to pay his way and not be under any obligations to anyone has no business going to any of the hospitals in St. Louis. The lowest charge for a room is $15 a week and runs up to $15 a week. The writer has been in other cities in the United States and will say that St. Louis hospitals give you less for your money than any hospital in the country.

A BELIEVER IN CHARITY IN THE RIGHT PLACE.

THE FRISCO SCANDAL.

The hearing before Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clark in the Frisco case has brought out facts of the utmost significance concerning the profits of Frisco officials in the deals with the railway. So far it has been shown that profits of $7,038,000 have been realized by syndicates in which officials of the road were interested.

The fullest information regarding the sale to the Frisco of properties built or bought by syndicates is in the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico deal, in which $3,000,000 were made on an investment of $3,891,000. Nine of the men participating in this deal were Frisco officials, including Directors W. K. Bixby, James Campbell, Treasurer F. H. Hamilton, Chief Engineer Hinkley, former counsel L. F. Parker, President B. F. Yoakum, Edward Hawley, W. B. Spaulding and C. H. Begg. These men represented the Frisco and were entrusted with the interests of its stockholders. At the same time they represented syndicates making enormous profits out of the road.

The facts are scandalous. They disclose practices that should not be tolerated for a moment in the conduct of any kind of business, not to speak of a corporation in the public service, the conditions of which are vitally affected by such financial juggling.

To cap the climax in this case, Mr. Thomas H. West, head of the Union Trust Co., which organized and financed some of these deals involving contracts and sales of feeder roads, was made receiver of the company when it was thrown into bankruptcy.

The scandal should be probed to the bottom. The information so far disclosed justifies fully the Post-Dispatch's demand for the regulation of railway financing by the Government.

What the Missouri Penitentiary needs first and worst is complete publicity for all its daily doings. Light in the dark corners would stop cruelty, petty graft and scandal.

MR. ARMOUR MUST CALL AGAIN.

With attempt at secrecy, J. Ogden Armour of the Beef Trust made a flying visit from Chicago to Washington. His experience on arriving there was the same as Boss Murphy's when he tried, last March, to make a secret date for a conference with the President—Mr. Wilson declined to see Mr. Armour. This does not mean that legitimate opportunity for the presentation of views will not, as time affords, be given trust magnates as well as other citizens at the White House. But public business of pressing urgency will not be subordinated at all hours to turn a preferential ear to the importunities of special interests.

The White House atmosphere has changed some since Mr. Morgan used to run down for a secret little conference on social justice most any time, and Steel Trust magnates could make night visits to arrange advance immunity for another violation of the Sherman Law. Had the election a year ago had a different result, no engagement list would be too full to disturb the convenience of Boss Plinn, Dan Hanna or Mr. Perkins.

A layman has obvious advantages over a physician as a hospital superintendent, but the difficulty is to find a layman who combines the right sort of qualities. St. Louis' institutions for the sick will afford abundant scope for the qualifications attributed to F. E. Chapman as a hospital efficiency engineer.

A RARE BIRD REAPPEARS.

Passenger pigeons—the presumably extinct breed that your grandfather used to talk about—have been rediscovered. Some are reported north of here, south-bound, and their schedules should bring them past presently.

Take a good look at this rare avis as he goes by. The passenger pigeon is not, as his name might indicate, a common carrier, in the legal sense or any other. He is not subject to the Interstate Commerce Commission or to intrastate regulation. He does not have to ring the bell on approaching grade crossings, whistle at towns, pay attention to semaphores or slow down for cows. "Due care" and "punitive damages" mean nothing to him. He cares nothing for Jim Crow laws. He is not bothered by politicians or judges seeking passes or jobs, and he flies over the Supreme Court with serene contempt. He neither lobbies nor appears before legislative committees, and takes less interest in a Democratic convention than he would in a corncrib. He contributes nothing to campaign funds. Nor does he truckle to the public. He publishes no magazines. His press agents do not pester the life out of working journalists, and he is not on hand with his own version of every accident that occurs. He does not give out interviews upholding the old wooden coach. He is not opposed to grade separation in cities or any other reasonable reforms, and he is not grabbing every available foot of ground everywhere for terminal purposes.

In a word, the negative virtues of the passenger pigeon commend him to our consideration. He is a rare bird indeed—too rare. We wish there were more like him in the transportation business.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH MISSOURI.

Very likely St. Louisans as a class know as little about the rest of Missouri as E. W. Stephens of Columbia says they know. If so, they share in the general ignorance which most city men betray about the commonwealth in which they are located. Acquaintance with the resources, official affairs, relative progress and physical features of one's own state, and particularly with its achievements and prevalent sentiment as attested by history, by no means belongs to the classification of useless or undesirable information. It forms a basis for a justifiable amount of state pride, and state pride in moderate quantities is an important ingredient in the formula for good government. State pride and state rights seem to have entered on a decline simultaneously, and a decline in the efficiency of state government began about the same time.

There is too great a readiness to look to the schools to provide a remedy for miscellaneous deficiencies. But with many St. Louisans as ignorant of their own city as of their own state, is there not a chance here for the schools to furnish a better sort of instruction?

THE RESPONSIBLE OFFICIALS.

Warden McClung in a public statement defiantly says he will continue the barbarous practices in the penitentiary which have shocked the public and brought widespread condemnation of Missouri prison administration.

These practices are:
Torturing prisoners in the "rings" to extort confession or information concerning violations of rules.

"Stringing up" prisoners who were accused under torture, the accusation in the one specific case which was exposed being repudiated as a device to get relief.

Using the "rings" to punish prisoners for failing to perform the daily task allotted to each prisoner in the contract work shops.

The use of the lash after the official abolition of the whipping post.

We ask Gov. Major if he intends to permit the continuance of these barbarities under his administration.

We ask State Treasurer Deal, State Auditor Gordon, Attorney-General Barker—members of the Board of Prison Inspectors—if they propose to permit these barbarities to be practiced under their prison administration.

These high public officials have complete power over the prison management. They can suspend or dismiss the Warden and his subordinates.

The Board of Prison Inspectors have full power to control the prison management, to prescribe and enforce prison rules and regulations.

The responsibility for prison barbarities rests upon Gov. Major, State Treasurer Deal, State Auditor Gordon and Attorney-General Barker. Will they act?

The fellows, generally more than 40 years old themselves, who continue to contradict Dr. Osler, are given a fine test in the last letter of Capt. R. F. Scott, the Antarctic hero. "I tell you," he wrote J. M. Barrie, "that I was not too old for the job. It was the young men that went under first."

DECEIT, HALTING JUSTICE.

At Jonesboro, Ark., the final phase of a five-year lawsuit between two farmers over a hog was a trip by the jury to view the animal in dispute. On arrival, they found that while the decrepit animal, justice, halted, the hog had died of old age. Its inopportune death was, of course, no bar to a continuance of litigation over its value, but after thoughtful scrutiny of the corpse delicti, plaintiff and defendant shook hands and ended the court proceedings.

Next time they will do at the beginning what they did at the end of the five years. Loss of confidence in the courts, due to the uncertainties and intolerable delays of legal proceedings, is at least having one by no means undesirable effect in reducing litigation. In some parts of the country the number of civil cases actually decreases as population increases. While lawyers only talk about simplifying and expediting their work, technicalities still obstruct the course of criminal justice. Wrong can defer its inevitable day of reckoning by dragging out to frightful lengths necessary suits for the vindication of public rights and privileges.

No others have as deep an interest in judicial reform as the lawyers. It will increase the number of those willing to submit civil disputes to court arbitration.

It appears rates were high enough on the Frisco, but the cost of inside melon cutting broke the road.

OCEAN JOURNALISM.

An interesting interpretation of the motif of yellow journalism in New York is given by Owen Johnson in his "Salamanca" yarn current in McClure's Magazine.

An editor is made to disclaim disdaintfully after this fashion:

"Truth! I know it! News? Not that! Not what the public wants—not my public! It wants fiction, it wants emotions! You don't know what the multitude is! I do! A great sunken city, a million stifling, starved existences, hurried through, railroaded through life. News? What! They want a taste of dreams! I make their dreams live in my paper. It's everything to them, melodrama, society, romance; it's a peep-hole into the worlds they can't touch. I show 'em millions moving behind their house-walls, rolling in wealth, fighting one another, battling for one another's wives, clanging a billion against a billion, ruining thousands for a whim. 'Monte Cristo!' It's tame to what I serve 'em. Mr. X Gives a Hundred Thousand Dollar Lunch—'Secret Drama of Oil Trust's Home'—'Deserts Millionaire Husband for Chauffeur'—'Ten Millions in Five Years'! That's life—that's emotion! That's what makes 'em go on! Fear, did you ever stop to think what does make the five million slaves go on, day in and day out, driven, groaning? 'Hope! the belief that in some miraculous way life is going to change.' He stopped, and with a drop to cold analysis, laying his hand on the editorial sheet, said:

"This is what does count. This is real—Meat! The other is just tom-tom-beating to get the crowd around—yes, just that: the band outside the circus. But this is different: this is true. America, the future—the glorious future when I've stirred up their imagination and taught them to think! There! Now do you understand what kind of man I am?"

Almost a recognizable description of the real yellow stuff served to New York. But what a pretense to claim that it is only a means to draw the crowd, so that they may be "taught to think!" A sideshow with an educational motive! An exhibition of freaks and monstrosities for the purpose of—moral elevation! A two-headed calf to instill democracy! A tom-tom to promote civilization!

It is more likely that the public will eventually teach the yellows to think.

OLD KING CORN AND ALL HIS MEN.

OLD King Corn and all his men are tenting in the fields again. And in the silent tents of gold is many a warrior girl and bold. The phantom sentry walks the ground upon his brave and martial round.

And shadow soldiers come and go as silently as falling snow.

Old King Corn
And all his men
Tenting in
The fields again.

At twilight, when the sky is red, the colors linger overhead. And in the moon's effulgent light the camp is beautiful and white. In imagery the campfires glow across the field and down the row. And one may hear the martial swing of songs that soldiers love to sing.

Old King Corn
And all his men
Tenting in
The fields again.

THE tents of gold, when day is done, reflect the glory of the sun. And on the wings of morning comes the martial throbbing of the drums.

The hosts of hunger steal away before that militant array. And plenty is returned again with Old King Corn and all his men.

GOLDEN DREAMS, GILDED BRICKS.

On the showing of facts exposed by the Post-Dispatch, Collier's Weekly supports the demand for a congressional investigation into the Mississippi River Power Co. at Keokuk and its exorbitant rates for electrical current. It speaks as follows of "golden dreams" that have their only fulfillment in "gilded bricks":

"For a long time completion of the Mississippi power dam at Keokuk has been the one golden dream of the affected country. It was to set street cars running and factory wheels turning in far-away cities; electric lights were to twinkle in all the hamlets; mills in hitherto inaccessible places were to be a-buzz with activity. Foreign manufacturers were to be lured there by the bait of economical operation. Interurban lines were to gridiron the country, upon the cheap power, power that would radiate from the center at Keokuk—the Father of Waters bountifully providing for his household. And few questioned the wisdom of the Government in making all this possible by a free gift to a private corporation. Exaggerated estimates of the power to be generated and the cost of production were to be a-buzz with activity. Foreign manufacturers were to be lured there by the bait of economical operation. Why not? Surely you don't sympathize with her, do you?"

"Harry," said Dorothy, "Grandma

put you through college when your

father was bankrupt and started you

in business. That's where most of her money has gone. If you have more gratitude than that you needn't

speak to me any more." And she

flounced out of the room.

It's queer how women think. Here

was I, bent only on securing to Dorothy and myself our rightful inheritance of Grandma's money, and she was in the air.

Things ran on as usual for a while,

and then the same thing happened

from Boston, in the shape of a delivery man carrying two tables, for

which Grandma had paid $1000

apiece.

"They are real Louis Quatorze,"

Harry, and the only specimens remaining from the workshop of Monsieur Genappe," said Grandma, beam-

ing upon me and upon them.

As soon as they had been unpacked

and placed in Grandma's reception room

I hurried in to look at them. To my mind they were just tables. However,

I am just by nature a Grandmother

and the benefit of the doubt. I knew a man who was a connoisseur in furniture,

and I paid him a fee and brought him

to the house in the guise of a friend.

When he looked at the tables he stuf-

fled his handkerchief to his mouth and

ran out of the room. I found him outside,

having a fit.

"O, gee!" he bubbled, holding his sides.

"Two thousand dollars for those? Why,

man, they're nothing but stained oak!"

The stain isn't even dry—look there!"

He showed me his handkerchief. He had moistened it with turpentine and

rubbed off a brown streak of stain

which, of course, he could not have done

with Louis Quatorze furniture.

That was the last straw. The next day I went round to a lawyer and arranged for habeas corpus proceedings to restrain Grandma from spending any more money on rubbish. But before anything could come of it Grandma died—

very suddenly, of apoplexy.

I was a little bit sorry then, because

I knew Dorothy suspected what I had done. However, her grandmother's

death settled the whole matter.

When the will was read the furniture

went to Dorothy, and the money—there was only two thousand—to a Home for Animals. I didn't get a penny.

I wasn't going to fight the animal

home for two thousand, because I knew

it would cost that much to break the

will. The fact is, I was so disgusted

with grandma's duplicity that I hadn't

any heart left for anything. And as for

Dorothy—she had been snubbing me un-

mercifully all along, because she thought

she was going to get that ten thousand, and all she got was enough rubbish to fill a couple of junk carts.

I told her just what I thought of her.

She had had me on a string, and now

the tables were turned, and while I admitted I might as well marry me

some day, I felt that under the circumstances she had only brought her own

foolishness upon herself.

The little wringer looked at me and

burst out laughing.

"It may interest you to know that

Jim and I have been engaged for a month—with grandma's full sanction,"

she said.

I knew that was untrue, but I congratulated her on having got a bargain, and left her. And I wasn't sorry, because I had known for a long time that Dorothy would never make

a wife for me, though I'm not the sort of man to go back on my word.

How to Reduce Fat Without Exercise, Drugs or Diet

Take the time when fat people should be thinking about reducing their weight and should stop making the fat that is such a burden to them. The best way and the easiest way is the one about which so much has been said and written this past year. This way is the Marmola way. The famous Marmola Prescription has been prepared in tablet form. These little tablets contain nothing but the elements that go to change the best things which produce fat into good, strong blood, nerves, tissues and bones. More than this, these tablets absorb and remove the fat remaining at the rate of from 15 to 18 ounces per day. You must not confuse Marmola Tablets with harmful patent drugs and harmful reducing methods. These tablets go into your stomach just like the food you eat. They build up the juices of the digestive organs and correct these juices so that they produce no more fat. They are harmless, yet thousands of men and women all over this land today are of firm figure and normal size because of these little tablets. This is why every druggist everywhere carries them in stock and will sell them to you. If your druggist does not have them, or if you would rather send for them, write to the Marmola Company, Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. They will send them to you at once in a plain package. Postage paid.—ADV.

A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 lbs. of Solid Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—sage and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this ailment is the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians. It is called Sargol, or Sargol Tablets with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and angle of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your ribs. Sargol is a powerful, safe, and projecting point. Judge S. J. Wolf, Wilson, Johnson Bros. and other leading druggists have Sargol, or Sargol Tablets, and will refund your money if it does not give you the gain in weight it guarantees in each package.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and feeble stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to invest a pound or more for it. It is a wonderful flesh-builder.—ADV.

he had a very good curtain hanging half across one pane of glass. Just then the storeroom door was opened and in came Mrs. Clark, to put away the summer hats.

"My, my, my," she said to herself, as she looked about the room. "It is full of spider webs. Mary, bring your broom and duster in here."

Then came Mary, the cook, who was cleaning. And in a minute she had wiped the beautiful web away from the mirror, and in another minute she had pushed through the seat of the chair, and in another minute she had swept away the mended table leg.

"Oh, there he is, the little beast," she cried suddenly, running to the window, "spinning another web across the glass."

And she began to sweep the web down from the window. Her broom broke the thread the spider was hanging to, and he dropped to the floor. Mary started after him, but he scuttled before her, and before she could catch him he had hustled through the open door and was safe back in his old home, which was in a dark closet in the hall.

"Dear me," he thought to himself. "All that work for nothing. And I must be in my own home after all. That will teach me one lesson—never to try to mend any more furniture. People don't appreciate what you do for them."

And he began spinning a comfortable web to go to sleep on.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough almost instantly, and will usually conquer an ordinary cough in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir 3 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis, spasmodic croup and whooping cough. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualic acid and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made it famous for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TO-NIGHT

BY MRS. FAWCER

THE TOO-AMBITIOUS SPIDER

THE crack in the storeroom door was not very large, but when a spider running along the floor saw it, he said: "I wonder what is in there?" And looking through the crack he saw it was the storeroom, and as he was looking for a home for himself, crawled through the crack and in a minute was in the room all by himself.

"A nice, large room," he said, "and well fitted to be my home."

As he looked around he saw in one corner a mirror, from which a piece of the corner had been broken by the window, a chair, from which the seat was gone, and in the middle of the room a table, from which a leg was missing, and which stood somewhat unsteadily on the three that were left.

At the windows there were no curtains, but the closed blinds shut out the bright light, and in the half-darkness the spider went around the room and looked over the furnishings.

"First," he said, "I will mend the mirror, for then I may be able to see myself, and since no one is to live with me I will keep me from being loathsome."

And beginning at the edge of the break in the glass, he spun his finest thread from there to the frame. Then back and forth he traveled, carrying the thread with him and spinning such a fine web as he had never spun before.

"For," said he, "I must make the web look as much like the mirror as I can and then the break will not be noticed."

Mrs. Elizabeth Laub Writes That She Has Received Great Benefit From Plant Juice.

The following interesting letter is from Mrs. Elizabeth Laub, who makes her home at the Young Woman's Christian Association in St. Louis. Mrs. Laub is well known in many of the best families of St. Louis as a most reliable and dependable woman, therefore her letter will be read with interest.

To the Plant Juice Man: Dear Sir:—After taking one bottle of your wonderful medicine I must say that I feel ten years younger and am enjoying almost perfect health now after several years of suffering.

My whole system seemed to be completely run down; I suffered from rheumatism, malaria, and was so nervous and restless that I could not sleep at night. No doctor could do anything for me because I could not explain just what was wrong with me. After reading about Plant Juice and what it was doing for others, I decided to try it, and am not sorry that I did, for I have Plant Juice to thank for the improvement in my health. My rheumatism has entirely left me, my nervous system is much strengthened, and I sleep fine at night; my appetite is good and I feel better in every way. My work is much easier now that I feel well. I am only too glad to recommend Plant Juice to others, and anyone may write me at the address below.

MRS. ELIZABETH LAUB, Y. W. C. A., St. Louis, Mo.

Many women who suffer from extreme nervousness, fits of depression, depondency, headache, pains across the back, in the side or under the shoulder, poor circulation, hot flashes, no appetite and a general tired out and run down condition, have found relief in Plant Juice. Get a bottle from the Plant Juice man at the Wolf-Wilson Drug Co. store, and if it does not help you, we will return your money.—ADV.

THOMAS W. GARLAND

408-11-13 N. Broadway

CITY HALL CLERK TESTIFIES HE WAS A LAND AGENT, TOO

H. H. Hillenkoetter of Street Department Presses Suit for $447.50 of Woman's Fees.

How H. H. Hillenkoetter, a clerk in the sprinkling department at the city hall, was instrumental in selling Florida reclaimed land to fellow clerks in the Street Department was told by him in Judge Rasmussen's court, where his suit against Mrs. A. Taylor Netterfield for $447.50 commission fees was on trial Thursday.

The evidence showed that Mrs. Netterfield was the local agent in selling the land, situated in the Lake Okechobee region in Florida, and that in January, 1912, she sold 40 acres to the plaintiff after he had gone to Florida and inspected the property. He paid $80 an acre for it.

Tells of Woman's Offer.

Hillenkoetter testified that on the train returning from Florida, "somewhere this side of Jacksonville," Mrs. Netterfield asked him to boom the property for her and if he succeeded in making sales among his friends in the city hall, she would split the commission with him. She had a contract by which she was to get $7 an acre for the land she sold.

According to the plaintiff he brought back samples of the soil and of grapefruit, sugar cane and other products grown on the reclaimed land and placed them on his desk at the city hall. Three of his fellow employees—J. H. Davis, Edward Jolly and J. H. Lemus—were interested in the land after seeing the samples. Hillenkoetter said he sent them to Mrs. Netterfield.

The plaintiff testified Davis bought 45 acres, Jolly 20 and Lemus 10. He said when the defendant agreed to divide her commissions, she instructed him to tell prospective customers that he paid more per acre than he actually paid.

Mrs. Netterfield denies she made an agreement with the plaintiff and declares he was not employed as sub-agent.

Circular Promises Fees.

Hillenkoetter, in part, relies on a statement in a circular given to the purchasers of property in the reclaimed district which contains a general invitation to boom the tract. It is contended that the following in the circular should be construed as a contract of employment: "Help us to interest your community and you will thus benefit your friends. Be busy until our large acreage is disposed of. Earn good commissions and receive them promptly. See any of our representatives for full particulars and write us."

Mrs. Netterfield, who lives at 4614 Morgan street, was under contract with the Florida Everglades Reclaimed Lands Co., a Chicago corporation, to sell the Okechobee property. Her lawyer, Otto F. Karbe, said the company has not yet settled with her.

TOM MALONEY AND DENNY BOX EIGHT PINK TEA ROUNDS

Queensberry Club's Opening Fistic Feature Results in a Draw.

NEITHER MAN HAS "PEP"

Harry Baker, Subbing for Kid Kansas, Springs Away From Thomas, but Loses.

By Harry S. Sharpe,

Referee for the Future City A. C. and Queensberry Club's Boxing Authority. The Queensberry Athletic Club, 1909 East Avenue, held its initial boxing entertainment last night before 100 spectators, a smaller crowd than might have been reasonably expected, considering the excellent reputations of the performers carded to appear.

When the last bout was over Referee Walter Bates, who was brought here from Kansas City to officiate, gave it as his opinion that Tommy Maloney of New York City and "Young" Denny of New Orleans had boxed a draw; that Joe Thomas of New Orleans had won from Harry Baker of Buffalo, N. Y.; that Mike Orrison of Kansas City, Mo., had won from Harry Wade of St. Louis, and that Eddie Meier had defeated Jim Kenney.

The writer believes Referee Bates was right in his opinion of three of the bouts, but believes he was wrong when he awarded his decision to Orrison over Harry Wade. The latter out-punished his opponent in five of the eight rounds, and had not Orrison made a flash in the seventh and eighth rounds he would have been distanced.

No "Kayos" on Program.

There were no knockouts and every bout went the limit.

Close followers of the ring who were present were decidedly disappointed in the bout which took place between Tommy Maloney and "Young" Denny, because neither lived up to the reputation which had preceded him. They are known to be clever boxers, but last night neither showed anything very startling against the other, and failed to arouse much enthusiasm. Maloney was the aggressor, while Denny displayed good defensive work and did some good countering. There was an entirely too much clinching, and this sort of thing followed almost every lead made by either. Maloney directed his attack to the body, while Denny countered his to the head, using an effective left hook. Neither was able to do much fighting because of holding that would have been good work on the part of a football tackle.

Denny and Maloney are rapid-fire workmen, and had they stood off and done more boxing the crowd would have been better entertained and one or the other might have been returned a winner. As it was, a draw was quite proper. The bout was one of eight rounds at 145 pounds.

Thomas Outclasses Baker.

In the semi-final, eight rounds at 125 pounds, between Joe Thomas and Harry Baker, the former showed to much advantage. He was faster with his hands than Baker and a better hitter, but for footwork the boy from Buffalo proved himself a rare sprinter. Thomas landed his tactics and began to box in a manner that was not only effective, but also a bit risky. While I admit the pattern is a trifle bizarre and the trappings a bit skimpy, in all other respects it is a perfectly good suit and all paid for. What is the proper mode of procedure under the circumstances? What does Bradstreet say about him?

We go to the kindergarten to learn our letters and to the university football field to learn them.

Bettors Favor Harvard to Defeat Yale But Elis Look Good to Eastern Writer

Both Elevens Appear to Lack Scoring Punch

By Herbert Reed,

Former Cornell Star and the Post-Dispatch's Eastern Football Representative.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—There are so many balances in the work of the Harvard and Yale elevens at this writing that it is difficult for the closest followers of the gridiron game to believe Saturday's big battle in the stadium at Cambridge is better than an even proposition.

On the basis of record—cold reason—and natural supremacy of certain individuals, Harvard should be a slight choice over Yale. On the basis of that analysis, Yale has a fair chance to win.

The outcome depends upon the generalship quite much as the teams, considered as a whole, and the added flip that can be given to a practically perfect scheme of play by sheer individual genius in drop kicking or otherwise.

Most of the year's big games have been won or tied primarily by punting, supported by drop kicking, with a spice of the rushing game. In individual ability to boot the ball—other than drop kicking—Harvard has not come up to the mark of a year ago, when Felton's in-step was the great asset in holding the Crimson to the top of the Eastern head.

Granting that Yale will have a slight advantage in yardage in punting, the drop kicking element comes in and comes in with a vengeance, for Brickley of Harvard is one of the greatest drop kickers the game has ever seen. Against Princeton McGraw turned up as one of the most promising drop kickers of the year, and his successful boot against the Tigers doubtless would have scored had it been made from a far greater distance. Also he has been under the tutelage of Billy Bull, the best drop-kicking coach in the country.

Harvard Must Return Kicks.

It would appear, then, that to equalize the punting game, and granting that Yale will do the longer punting, it is absolutely necessary for the Crimson to run back kicks with reasonable regularity, while Yale does not labor under quite so heavy a burden.

Mahan of Harvard is the best natural kicker.

Grupp Eager to Meet Kayo Brennan; New Club Drops $1000 on Inaugural

BILLY GRUPP, St. Louis' middleweight champion, is back in the city, after a successful campaign in the East. The lanky South Sider is eager for a bout with Knockout Brennan, who beat Marty Rowan Tuesday night. Tommy Sullivan is willing to put on the bout if the boxers can agree on weight.

Johnny Solberg, the New York boxer, declines a bout with Benny McGovern, the featherweight. Solberg is willing to box McGovern, provided Benny makes 125 pounds at 3 o'clock. This is the match that the Columbia A. C. wanted for its opening show, Dec. 13.

According to the McManis, the Queensberry A. C. lost in the neighborhood of $1000 in putting on the opening show last night. Despite the loss, however, the club will continue holding bouts. Probably 300

Tommy Moran, a New Yorker, who challenges the world at 115-120 pounds, has joined the local colony of boxers. He may show in a preliminary at the Future City A. C. next Tuesday.

"Tight" Sanders and Johnny Solberg, who boxed an eight-round draw two weeks ago, have been booked for the Dec. 2 feature at the Future City A. C.

"I have to take my hat off to Marty Rowan," said Knockout Brennan. "I hit him some awful hard punches and it was surprising to me that he didn't drop."

MAGEE, NOT KONEY, MAY GO TO GIANTS IN CARDINAL DEAL

Playing of Huggins' Speed Merchant on Tour Pleases New York's Boss.

By Clarence F. Lloyd,

That John McGraw, leader of the National League champion Giants, has switched his longing eyes from Ed Koney to Lee Magee, is the latest from the world baseball tourists expedition.

For that reason he would make a better appreciation of the speed since he joined the Giants on the long junkie giving McGraw a better idea of Magee's style of playing.

Magee is McGraw's style of a ball player. He's a fresh young kid, has more than his share to say on the ball field and besides being fast and owning a good arm, can play at most any infield position in addition to being a good fly grabber.

Magee Makes Fine Showing.

McGraw has a hunch that his outfield isn't quite up to World's Championship class. For that reason he would make a change or two. George Burns proved a failure as a world's series performer but Burns is still a young man and will develop. Snodgrass and Murray have not outlived their usefulness in New York, but McGraw would add Magee if he had the chance and is now trying to put over some deal to obtain the Cincinnati German.

Cards Go to Florida.

President Britton of the Cardinals, announces that all arrangements have been made for the team to train at St. Augustine, Fla., next spring. The assurance of the St. Augustine citizens that a good baseball park would be laid out for the St. Louis team, caused President Britton to close the deal.

It is Manager Huggins' plan to go South earlier than usual, calling the players to get into the St. Augustine training camp. The usual Northbound barnstorming junkie will also be eliminated, the experience of the club last spring, when it became stranded in the Indianapolis flood, convincing Huggins that it's folly to attempt to gather money on the homeward jump.

A series of exhibition games with the Athletics, who will also train in Florida, may be played.

Vincent Walsh joins C. B. C. Vincent Walsh, for four years the star pitcher of the Wabash basketball team, has matriculated at Christian Brothers College and will be a member of the college nine this spring. He should be a big help to the college, as he is regarded as one of the best young pitchers in the city.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Handing the Yankees One.

ENGLAND landed another glancing blow at American athletes when Oxford University passed rules which will restrict the athletic performance of American Rhodes scholars at the famous English institution of learning.

According to the rule, all students having a previous residence at any university are barred from competition during their freshman year. Also, an age limit of 24 has been set for all Rhodes scholars who want to compete in athletics.

Scant Chance for Americans.

THE age limit is the objectionable barrier; for, as Rhodes scholars from America are graduates of four-year courses, they are seldom under 23 years of age when they begin their schooling abroad. With one year off for the freshman year, the performance of Rhodes students at Oxford will in future be limited to a year in some game, and in most cases cut off entirely.

Defeating Donor's Purpose.

THIS is certainly defeating the purpose of the donor of the scholarships, Cecil Rhodes, who believed in developing efficient bodies as well as alert minds in institutions of learning. The real reason for the barring of the Rhodes men is found in the results of this year's freshman games at Oxford. According to a report in the London Times, EVERY FIRST AND EVERY SECOND at the freshman games WAS WON BY A RHODES SCHOLAR.

One Cambridge University observer is quoted as remarking that "Cambridge could beat Oxford alone, but it wasn't up to the job of beating the United States, Canada and the British Colonies as well."

That straw broke Oxford's pride and, rather than seem to be taking an unfair advantage of Cambridge, the limiting rules were passed.

Merely for Effect?

THERE is a growing suspicion that the reason the National League is hitting Gov. Tener of Pennsylvania to take the presidency of the organization at a salary of $25,000 per annum, is the same as that which induces a furniture manufacturer to put a flimsy oak facing on a soft-pine chair.

GOVERNOR TENER TO HEAD LEAGUE FOR FOUR YEARS

National League Presidents Offer Position to Executive at $25,000 Annual Salary.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 20.—Gov. John K. Tener of Pennsylvania will succeed Thomas J. Lynch as president of the National League at the annual meeting of that organization in New York next month. This arrangement was made yesterday after Tener had a conference with President Hempstead of the Giants, President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club and Harry Ackerman, representing the Chicago club. The other clubs were not represented.

The terms of Tener's acceptance are that he is to head the league for four years. His active work with the organization will not commence until January, 1915, however, when his term as Governor of Pennsylvania will have expired. From January 7, 1914, to January 1915, John Heydler, secretary of the league, will likely handle the president's business.

While Gov. Tener and the club heads would say nothing of it, it is reported that Tener's salary will be $25,000 a year. This is more than three times the sum paid Tom Lynch, the present head of the League. Tener is an Irishman, having been born on the Emerald Isle in 1863. He came to this country at an early age and settled in Pittsburgh. While working as a clerk, he picked up some games for semi-professional teams. He accepted his first professional baseball engagement in 1885 as first baseman of the Pittsburgh team.
